FLAMSTEAD AND MARKYATE

Ver Valley Society

Discover the River Ver

The River Ver is special; it is a chalk stream, one of only about 200 on the planet and its pure alkaline water supports a very particular mix of flora and fauna. For 450,000 years, since the Anglian Ice Age, it has flowed (almost) uninterrupted along its valley, south from its source at Kensworth Lynch in the Chiltern Hills, through Markyate, Flamstead, Redbourn, St Albans and Park Street to where it joins with the River Colne near Bricket Wood – ultimately to empty into the River Thames near Windsor.

Man has used the river for navigation, for milling, for mineral extraction and for food production – these processes mean the river is much changed from its 'natural' state. Today we utilise the Ver in two other ways. Firstly, deep boreholes into the chalk strata (or aquifer) abstract over half of all the water that falls as rain in the area. Secondly, we use the river and its attractive surroundings for simple leisure and pleasure, by walking through its valley or along its banks, as you might do today by following this route.

Like a good book, the River Ver has a beginning, middle and end, and associated with its twists and turns many characters come and go; through these walks you will follow the story in eight chapters, from source to confluence. We aim to set the Ver in its local landscape and cultural context. For further information about the Ver and the people who lived near it, past and present, visit our website: www.riverver.co.uk

The River Ver links us to the past, present and future. It is...

liquid history

Watling Street has close association with the River Ver for its entire 17m/27km course. The river twists and turns through the valley on its way downstream. The Roman road follows a generally straight route, ascending and descending hills and escarpments, fording the river in six places – important crossing places even today. One of Britannia's most important military and commercial overland routes, Watling Street linked London with the Kent coast at Richborough, via Canterbury and Rochester, and with the Midlands and Chester via Verulamium.

Watling is Anglo-Saxon in origin. Bede, writing in the early 8th century wrote that Verulamium is called Verlamchester or Waeclingachester, after Wacol's people who lived there. Waeclingas were his followers, hence Watling Street.

1 Flamstead scarecrow festival

First held in 2002, this annual event quickly became a significant part of village life; it takes place in August, and thousands attend this vibrant and entertaining occasion.

2 Watercress beds, Flamstead

Small-scale watercress production was undertaken on the River Ver at several points near Flamstead, like this at River Hill. Any suitable scrapes, hollows or ditches might be utilised. Further downstream the industry was on a more formal and larger scale.

8 Trowley Bottom

Trowley (rhymes with holy) Bottom is a distinct, if not now separate, part of Flamstead. The little hamlet lies in a hollow, part of a 'dry' valley that meets the Ver at Friars Wash.

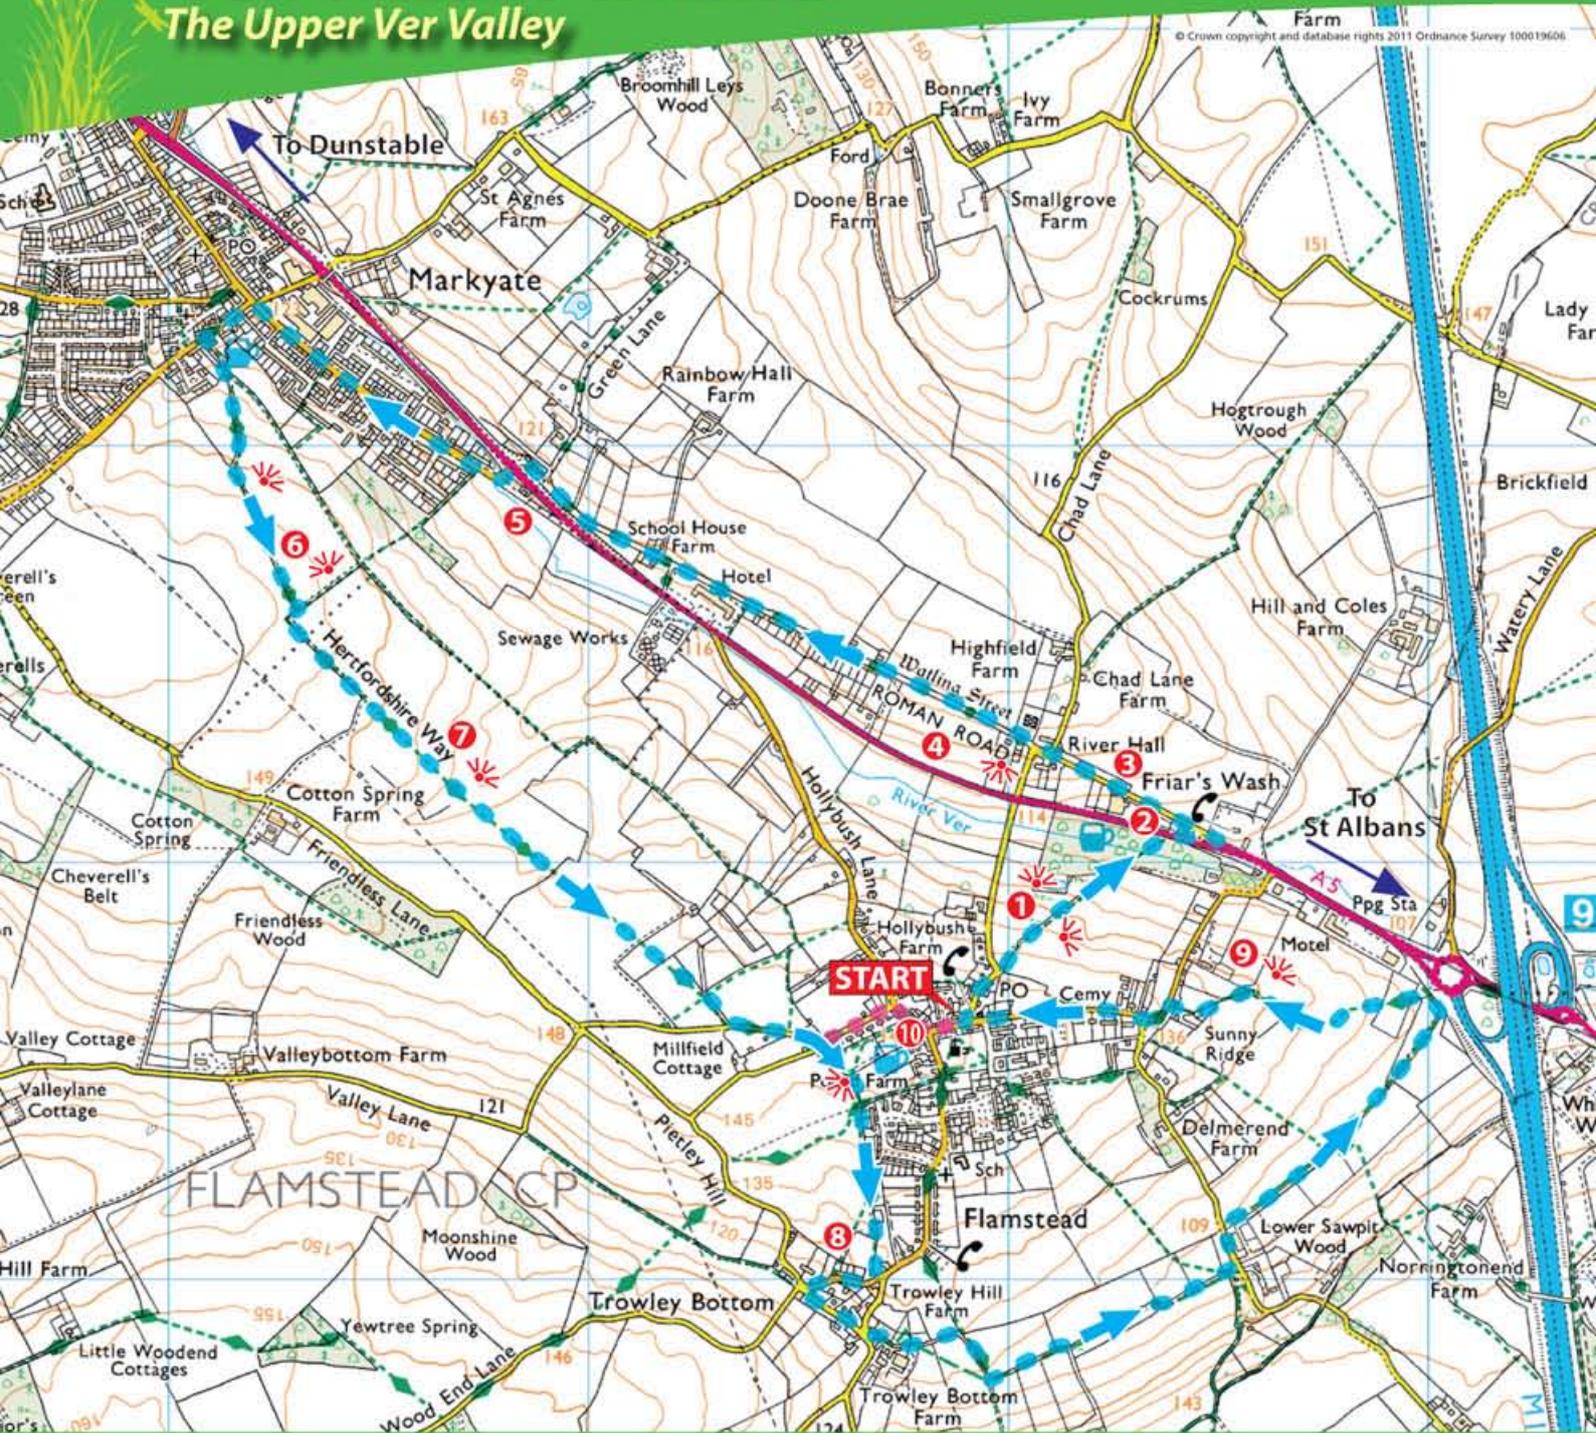

10 Flamstead, church and village

St Leonard's church tower is topped by a short spire, known as a Hertfordshire Spike. The rivalry between Flamstead and Redbourn folk goes back to medieval times; even into the 20th century, groups of village boys frequently clashed.

VER VALLEY WALK 2

The Upper Ver Valley

Start from River Hill (a turning off the main street opposite the pubs). Walk down River Hill; where the road bends left, bear right through a kissing-gate. From this meadow there are fine views east to River Hall 1. Through a second kissing-gate there are views of Friar's Wash. Pass into Ettimore Copse and down the slope of the valley.

Take care to keep to the footpath through Majestic Trees nursery site. After entering the site, turn right and pass to the right of the barns then, after approx. 50 paces, turn left to the footbridge over the River Ver 2. Pass through the tree line, right, to the road embankment.

Cross Watling Street and join Old Watling Street to follow the line of the original Roman road 3. There are fine views of Flamstead church across the valley 4.

Recross the 'new' road (A5) to enter Markyate via London Road and High Street. See the River Ver on the west side of the road as it exits its culvert 5.

Leave Markyate via Pickford Road, take the footpath left, back to Flamstead. Keep right at a fork, up the slope passing allotments. There are fine views north and east – including to Kensworth Lynch, the source of the Ver 6; crossing a rolling arable field further on, there are views east, across the valley, to Rainbow Hall Farm 7. Keep an eye out for Red Kites and Buzzards soaring above, as they use the valley thermals as uplift to gain height.

When the path meets the lane, turn left and head towards Flamstead, at the junction of Friendless Lane and Mill Lane, turn either left along Friendless Lane to take the short walk back to the start, or cross the overflow car park to follow the path south, behind the gardens, down the slope towards Trowley Bottom 8.

At Friar's Wash, beside the M1 junction complex, bear left at the gate to ascend the slope to a wood. At the top there are fine views over the valley, east and north across Friar's Wash 9. Turn right and follow the edge of the wood until, passing between two gardens, you emerge at the top of Chequers Hill. Turn left and return to the village centre 10 along Singlets Lane.
